New Start of BUCKLE KOBO Website

As a part of Warehouse TERRADA's art business, "BUCKLE KOBO –turning an iron factory in Keihin Island, the final frontier of Tokyo, into a creative hub–" was launched on March 1, 2016 to spread out the new culture from bay area. As a hub of creation, we are going to renovate an ironworks in Keihinjima Island, where the broad land and bountiful resources are extant, into an open art factory for creating artworks, even capable of using fire and noise. Through this project, Warehouse TERRADA is contributing to produce a community place for artists, provide a space for outputting culture, and support the inheritance of a craftsmanship that has been alive along the bay area.
