Warehouse TERRADA New Cloud Service "Cloud-Bushitsu" Starting on May 9th, 2017

- "Cloud storage" x "Community function" proposes a new storage style to connect with friends -

Warehouse TERRADA (Shinagawa, Tokyo / CEO: Yoshihisa Nakano) is pleased to announce that MINIKURA launches a new service "Cloud-Bushitsu" (Cloud Locker Room) on May 9th (Tue.), 2017.

With the development of communication tools such as SNS, there are increasing numbers of people who are seeking connection with their friends whom they have played and sweated together when they were in the club activities. Due to employment, marriage and other life changing decisions around the members, the storage of club tools is needed to resolve the storage problem, therefore this service is created.

"Cloud-Bushitsu" (<https://cloud-bushitsu.minikura.com/lp/>) is a "community storage service for next generation" that combines club communication between members and storage functions. Based on the concept of locker room, it is a unique service with full of special features that stimulates the users' interest and creates communication with friends. MINIKURA will continue to provide services that will help to solve storage space problems by focusing on the concept of "cloud storage," a lifestyle platform.

[About Cloud-Bushitsu]

By targeting 20 to 30 generations people who devoted to club activities during the school days, minikura’s cloud storage service offers a “Community storage service for the next generation” with a function such as SNS group member only communication tool. Usually, minikura provides a cloud storage service for individual users. This new service, “Cloud-Bushitsu” allows users to store and manage items, and communicate with teammates. In addition, other functions such as "Join the club", "Chat in our locker room", "Use our locker" and more are available to inspire user experiences and communicate actively. Lastly, the temperature and humidity in the warehouse are under control, and the environment of storage is more optimal than own home.
