

PIGMENT Operated by Warehouse TERRADA to Hold Workshops on Traditional Japanese Painting Techniques at Garage Museum of Contemporary Art in Moscow

Warehouse TERRADA (Shinagawa, Tokyo/CEO: Yoshihisa Nakano) is pleased to announce that PIGMENT, our traditional art materials lab, will hold a series of workshops on Japanese painting techniques entitled “Workshops on Traditional Japanese Painting by PIGMENT T-ART ACADEMY” at the invitation of the Garage Museum of Contemporary Art in Moscow in the museum in the framework of the Public program for the exhibition Takashi Murakami. Under the Radiation Falls for four days on October 21st (Sat.), 22nd (Sun.), 28th (Sat.) and 29th (Sun.).

PIGMENT holds various “T-ART ACADEMY” workshops where participants learn professional techniques up close using a variety of carefully selected painting materials. At the workshops in October, Dr. Kei Iwaizumi, PIGMENT Lab Chief, and Sayu Hasegawa, artist and PIGMENT Art Material Expert, will serve as visiting instructors to demonstrate how to use natural pigments and washi-paper used in Japanese paintings, and the secrets of traditional techniques through workshops introducing kira-zuri (mica printing), tsugigami (collaging), mizu-uchiwa (Japanese style painting on water fan), and lectures on Japanese paintings. In addition to these workshops, PIGMENT intends to undertake various initiatives in the future.

[About PIGMENT] <https://pigment.tokyo>

PIGMENT is an art materials research lab connecting artistic expression both with tradition and the future, and develops the ingredients for that expression – colorants and adhesive vehicles for mixing paints, calligraphy brushes and paintbrushes – in a unique creativity center fusing an art academy and a museum with an art materials store. With pigments in 4500 hues, 200 varieties of aged ink sticks, 50 different vehicles for paint blending, it offers materials of rare and surpassing quality created with techniques from all times and places. Also, PIGMENT is taking unique approaches to research, educate and popularize “art materials,” their “usage,” and furthermore “expression” produced by this harmony.
