

Business Partnership with free K.K.

- Offering new service for accountants -

Warehouse TERRADA formed a business partnership with free K.K., the provider of cloud accounting software "free," in order to launch a service to improve business efficiency for accountants and accounting firms.

Recent years, among tax accountants and certified public accountants, their services have been commoditized. While business analysis, consulting and other high valued services are required, regular works such as journalizing and bookkeeping have remained a major burden and not yet been improved.

Warehouse TERRADA formed a business partnership with free K.K., and will provide a packaged product which includes our document scanning, storage, and disposal services, and interfaced with an automated bookkeeping function by "free." "free" is a cloud accounting software with the largest market share in Japan, and the number of the users amounted to over 5,000. With this new product, we are going to support to reduce accountants' burdens related to bookkeeping such as working time and space, and also contribute to promote efficiency and speed up business, in order to enhance the high valued services. Furthermore, storage of accounting documents, reduction of management works, and effective use of space are expected to be brought for client companies of the accountants as their benefit. Warehouse TERRADA will continue to provide services utilizing strengths of both companies.
